

W. F. HAVEMEYER IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

Noted Sugar Man Dies in His Sleep—Butler Carrying Message Discovers It.

HAD BEEN IN GOOD HEALTH

Son-in-law, W. R. Wilcox, Had Just Invited Him to Spend Day in the Country.

William F. Havemeyer, who was a member of Havemeyer Brothers, sugar refiners, at the time that concern was absorbed by the American Sugar Refining Company in 1889, was found dead in bed yesterday morning in the apartments of his son-in-law, William R. Wilcox, former chairman of the Public Service Commission, with whom he lived, at 11 East Forty-fifth street. Death was ascribed to angina pectoris. He was in his sixty-fourth year. He is believed to have died as he slept.

Mr. Havemeyer was a son of Mayor William F. Havemeyer of this city, who was stricken at the City Hall in 1876 during the second year of his term.

Mr. Havemeyer dined at the Hotel Gotham on Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Havemeyer, his son and daughter-in-law, and with Mrs. John J. Herrick, the latter's mother. He returned home at 9 o'clock and went to the library, where he remained reading until midnight.

After retiring to his room he called in Arthur Clinton, a negro butler, who has been employed by the family for thirty years, and complained of a pain in the chest. He suggested that a capsaicum plaster might give him relief and the butler helped put one on. Then he went to bed.

Thought He Was Sleeping.

At 2 o'clock in the morning the butler, wishing to satisfy himself that Mr. Havemeyer was comfortable, tiptoed to his room and tapped on the door. There was no response. The butler again knocked at 4 o'clock and hearing nothing decided that Mr. Havemeyer was sleeping peacefully.

At 9 o'clock Mrs. Wilcox, who was at her summer home in Locust Valley, telephoned to the butler and asked how her father was feeling.

"He is not up," replied the old negro.

"Call him to the telephone," said Mrs. Wilcox. "We wish him to come to Locust Valley over Sunday."

Mrs. Wilcox handed the telephone receiver to her husband as the butler hurried to Mr. Havemeyer's room, where he was shocked to find Mr. Havemeyer dead in his bed.

Badly frightened he went back to the phone and after awhile managed to explain to Mr. Wilcox that Mr. Havemeyer had apparently been dead several hours.

Mr. Wilcox telephoned to Dr. Paul W. Kimball of 121 East Sixty-fourth street to go to the house and the butler also called in another physician. Both doctors agreed to the cause of death.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox at once left their summer home in an automobile and arrived at their city house two hours later. Up to a late hour last night arrangements for the funeral had not been completed.

It was not until after Mr. Havemeyer's death that the members of his family learned that on Saturday afternoon he telephoned to the offices of two physicians that he wanted to see them, but neither were in. It is not believed that he attempted to get in touch with a third.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox had not the slightest intimation that Mr. Havemeyer was not feeling at his best.

On Friday night Mrs. Wilcox came to New York with her father and they dined at Delmonico's with Mr. Wilcox. After dinner Mrs. Wilcox returned to Locust Valley and Mr. Havemeyer and Mr. Wilcox remained in town. Before Mr. Wilcox went to his summer home on Saturday evening he was assured that his father-in-law was feeling well.

The Wilcoxes kept their city residence open largely for the accommodation of Mr. Havemeyer, who liked to make frequent trips between Locust Valley and this city.

Mr. Havemeyer was born in New York on March 31, 1850, his mother being Sarah Agnes Craig. He was educated by tutors and in private schools in this city, but did not go to college. He was married on April 3, 1877, to Miss Josephine L. Harmon, a daughter of Alexander Harmon of New York. Mrs. Havemeyer died fourteen years ago.

Out of the Sugar Business.

Mr. Havemeyer was the younger brother of John Craig Havemeyer, the retired sugar refiner. It was in 1856 that the sugar refinery of the Havemeyer Brothers was established in Brooklyn. John Craig Havemeyer was then 23 years old. The younger brother took a great interest in the business as a boy and soon after he reached manhood he was admitted to partnership.

He engaged in the sugar refining business with his brothers as a comparatively young man, but had no connection with that industry after his firm passed into the control of the American Sugar Refining Company. The Havemeyers now connected with that company are Mr. Havemeyer's cousins.

Although retired from business, Mr. Havemeyer took an active interest in various enterprises. He was a member of the council of New York University and chairman of the board of trustees of the University Place Presbyterian Church. He was founder of the Havemeyer Laboratory of the New York University and was a member of the National Academy of Design.

Mr. Havemeyer was a director of the City Exchange Bank, a trustee of the North River Savings Bank and a director of the New York Mortgage and Security Company and Chelsea Realty Company.

He belonged to the Union League, Met-

GREAT CULEBRA CUT FINISHED.

Last Shovelful of Earth Removed—Will Be Flooded To-morrow.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. PANAMA, Sept. 7.—The last shovelful of earth was dug from the Culebra cut at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. All the tracks and equipment will be removed by Tuesday and the flooding of the cut begun.

It was originally intended that all steam shovel operations on the Culebra cut proper should cease on September 15 and that by October 5 all the equipment, including thirty-six miles of track, must be out of the nine mile channel between Gamboa dike and the Pedro Miguel locks.

On August 1 there remained to be removed 988,800 cubic yards inside the theoretical canal prism, and it was estimated that two-thirds of this would be taken out by September 15.

The work on the canal is now progressing rapidly. On August 3 the last barrier at the Pacific end of the canal was blown up by dynamite and that same day several dredges passed through the opening. Work was begun on the last barrier of the Atlantic channel two days later, and when this has been completed ships will be able to navigate to the locks at both ends. Several days after the blowing up of the last dike holding back the waters of the Pacific Ocean it was discovered that the lock valves at Miraflores had yielded somewhat to the pressure and were leaking. Divers reported that calculations probably would have to be sunk, but that this work would not require more than two weeks.

ROME ANTI-CLERICALS ATTACK GYMNASTS

Belgian Delegation Taken for Austrians and a Near Riot Follows.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. ROME, Sept. 7.—Notwithstanding the precautions of the police and the prohibition of meetings of visiting Catholic gymnasts and anti-clericals there were serious disturbances today on the occasion of an exhibition by the athletes before the Pope.

As originally planned the Catholic societies were to meet in the square of St. John of Lateran and march with banners and bands to the Vatican. The Socialists and anti-clericals, headed by the noted Giordano Bruno Association, arranged an anti-clerical meeting on the Piazza Scossa Cavilli in front of the Vatican for the same hour. The police issued an order prohibiting the meetings, but allowed the gymnasts to march to the Vatican in small groups through the side streets without any emblems.

There was general excitement as the hour for the assembly of the gymnasts arrived and disorders began almost immediately after they had started on the way to the Vatican. The chief disorder was in the Piazza Rusticucci, at the entrance of St. Peter's Square. The Austrian contingent of athletes arrived in street cars, as they had been warned that owing to the existing anti-Austrian feeling it would be dangerous for them to proceed. The Belgian group arrived on foot and they were mistaken for the Austrians. They were attacked by the anti-clericals and responded by fighting back. The anti-clericals tried repeatedly to rush St. Peter's Square and the soldiers had to help the police to repel their dashes.

The leaders were arrested. An angry follower of Garibaldi and the contingents of the crowd, the banner being the Italian flag. This was unfurled in the square and carried in the basilica. It was the first time that the Italian tricolor has waved on the altar of St. Peter's, a fact which the afternoon papers announced with headlines an inch long.

After mass in St. Peter's the gymnasts marched with bands and colors to the court of St. Damasus, where the Pope, carrying a big silk umbrella and surrounded by his court, blessed them from the balcony. The lads cheered and sang the papal hymn.

When the Pope learned of the disorders which had occurred outside the Vatican he said: "We must have patience. There must be no hot blood."

CHILD AND NURSE MISSING.

All Day Search for Child of Francis P. Ampudia.

Francis P. Ampudia, who has a general draughting business at 71 Wall street, reported at the Lenox avenue police station at 1:30 o'clock this morning that his eleven-year-old son, Ciro, and his nurse, Clara Ryan, had been missing from the Ampudia home at 204 St. Nicholas avenue since 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Mr. Ampudia said that the nurse, who has been in his employ about a month, took little Ciro out for a ride in a go-cart yesterday morning. The child was dressed in white with blue stockings.

When the nurse and child did not appear Mrs. Ampudia became hysterical and with her husband started out to look for the missing ones. They searched all day and all night.

PLANS NIGHT THEOLOGY SCHOOL.

Pastor Thinks There's Need of City Made Preachers.

A night school of theology is soon to be started in this city—the first of its kind anywhere—by the Rev. Dr. John Rogers Gunn, the new pastor of the North Baptist Church, in West Eleventh street. The purpose of the school is to interest young men of modest means in the ministry. Already several of the young men in the North Church have enrolled and there are many others in other churches who want to join. It will be a theological seminary preparatory school and will be open to all young men of every denomination, like the Union Seminary.

Dr. Gunn believes such a school to be a great need in cities.

"The largest proportion of the clergy now come from the small towns and rural communities," he said. "It seems to me that the city youth, brought up in the city, knowing the city's heart, the city's mind and the city's problems, can best serve the city churches. There is not a city that furnishes its quota of candidates for the ministry, and I believe that this school I am trying to start will furnish more candidates. There are many bright young men right here in my church who are interested already. It is a great field."

At every soda fountain ask for ANGIOTENSIN BOTTLES in your drinks. It makes them delicious.—Ads.

500 EXCURSIONISTS IN PERIL ON LEAKY BOAT

Steamer Newark, With Fires Half Drowned, Just Reaches Stapleton.

PASSENGERS STRANDED

Some Have No Money to Get Home With—Say Pumps Were Used All Day.

The excursion steamboat Newark, bound on her return trip from Rockaway Beach to Perth Amboy with between 400 and 500 persons aboard, was obliged because of her leaking condition to put into Stapleton, Staten Island, at 9 o'clock last night. She tied up in a driving rain at the city pier at the foot of Canal street and discharged her passengers.

The excursionists were not aware until then the great danger they had been in. When they learned that the boat was taking water fast they told of having seen some of the crew at the pumps on the morning trip. They were angry in the belief that they had been permitted to come back on a boat in that condition.

Some were also at a loss as to how to get home. They were told that the boat would have to stay where she was for the night and that they would have to get to their homes the best they could. Those with money went from Stapleton to Tottenville by train and crossed by ferry to Perth Amboy. Many of those without funds were still roaming around Staten Island at an early hour this morning.

The Newark, in command of Capt. Rose, left Perth Amboy at 9 o'clock yesterday morning with members of the Waters Association, their wives and best girls aboard for a day's outing. It arrived at Rockaway Beach at 12:30 o'clock. On the return trip the passengers noticed that the pumps were still going. Capt. Rose and his men didn't volunteer any information as to what was going on, they said, although the pumps were going the greater part of the afternoon.

Disturbed by Slow Trip.

As the Newark was off Quarantine last night passengers noticed that she was making a slow passage. They began to ask questions about it, but were not enlightened. The orchestra played one turkey trot after another and nobody had time to get nervous.

Then a violent thunder storm broke and the excursionists took refuge in the saloon. The splash of the rain on the window panes prevented them from noting the lights on shore or the progress that was being made. A west wind drove the slow going steamboat toward the Staten Island shore and the incoming tide helped her along.

The passengers didn't really know what the skipper had in his mind until the Newark bumped against the 1,400 foot pier and lines were made fast.

Then Capt. Rose gave orders that everybody would have to go ashore, as the boat being made. A west wind drove the slow going steamboat toward the Staten Island shore and the incoming tide helped her along.

The passengers didn't really know what the skipper had in his mind until the Newark bumped against the 1,400 foot pier and lines were made fast.

Then Capt. Rose gave orders that everybody would have to go ashore, as the boat being made. A west wind drove the slow going steamboat toward the Staten Island shore and the incoming tide helped her along.

The passengers didn't really know what the skipper had in his mind until the Newark bumped against the 1,400 foot pier and lines were made fast.

Then Capt. Rose gave orders that everybody would have to go ashore, as the boat being made. A west wind drove the slow going steamboat toward the Staten Island shore and the incoming tide helped her along.

The passengers didn't really know what the skipper had in his mind until the Newark bumped against the 1,400 foot pier and lines were made fast.

Then Capt. Rose gave orders that everybody would have to go ashore, as the boat being made. A west wind drove the slow going steamboat toward the Staten Island shore and the incoming tide helped her along.

The passengers didn't really know what the skipper had in his mind until the Newark bumped against the 1,400 foot pier and lines were made fast.

Then Capt. Rose gave orders that everybody would have to go ashore, as the boat being made. A west wind drove the slow going steamboat toward the Staten Island shore and the incoming tide helped her along.

The passengers didn't really know what the skipper had in his mind until the Newark bumped against the 1,400 foot pier and lines were made fast.

Then Capt. Rose gave orders that everybody would have to go ashore, as the boat being made. A west wind drove the slow going steamboat toward the Staten Island shore and the incoming tide helped her along.

The passengers didn't really know what the skipper had in his mind until the Newark bumped against the 1,400 foot pier and lines were made fast.

Then Capt. Rose gave orders that everybody would have to go ashore, as the boat being made. A west wind drove the slow going steamboat toward the Staten Island shore and the incoming tide helped her along.

The passengers didn't really know what the skipper had in his mind until the Newark bumped against the 1,400 foot pier and lines were made fast.

Then Capt. Rose gave orders that everybody would have to go ashore, as the boat being made. A west wind drove the slow going steamboat toward the Staten Island shore and the incoming tide helped her along.

The passengers didn't really know what the skipper had in his mind until the Newark bumped against the 1,400 foot pier and lines were made fast.

Then Capt. Rose gave orders that everybody would have to go ashore, as the boat being made. A west wind drove the slow going steamboat toward the Staten Island shore and the incoming tide helped her along.

The passengers didn't really know what the skipper had in his mind until the Newark bumped against the 1,400 foot pier and lines were made fast.

TRAIN KILLS THREE IN AUTO.

Train Hits Car, Politician and Daughters Die.

SAYRE, Pa., Sept. 7.—E. Judson Connolly, for many years Republican leader here, and his two daughters, Misses Phoebe and Carolyn, were killed and Mrs. Connolly's right leg was broken when their automobile was struck by a Lehigh Valley passenger train at Cayuta, N. Y., about noon to-day.

The four members of the family were driving to Syracuse, N. Y., where they had planned to attend the State Fair this week. Near Cayuta there is about the most dangerous grade crossing on the Lehigh. The highway descends the side of a hill and then turns a right angle. The Lehigh main line tracks round the base of the hill and cross the highway at the point of the angle.

When the car was crossing the east-bound track, train No. 146 struck it and Mrs. Connolly was thrown ten feet, escaping with her life. Miss Phoebe fell out of the wreckage of the car, which was on the point of the engine, after it had moved fifty feet. Miss Carolyn was carried one hundred feet further. The engine was stopped twelve hundred feet from the scene of the accident and Mr. Connolly's body was found in the wreckage on the point.

The three bodies and Mrs. Connolly were placed in a baggage car and brought here.

ANGER IN TOKIO AT CHINESE OUTRAGES

Crowds in Control Demand Mobilization of the Japanese Army.

Chinese Officials Declare Persons Killed at Nankin Disobeyed Orders.

Special Cable Dispatches to The Sun. TOKIO, Sept. 7.—The murder of Mr. Abe of the Foreign Office is now generally believed to have been due to political intrigue. He had charge of the section of the Foreign Office which deals with Chinese affairs, the handling of which is causing daily increasing anger and wild speeches.

There was a meeting to-day at Hibiya Park, from which the police were absent, although they had issued an order that the demonstration should not be held. The killing of several Japanese at Nankin and the insult to the Japanese flag when the Chinese regular troops captured that city from the rebels and started to loot and pillage the place made up the principal theme of the speeches. A resolution was adopted demanding that the Japanese army be mobilized.

A delegation from the meeting accompanied by a crowd went to the Foreign Office to demand the mobilization of the army or the resignation of the Minister of Foreign Affairs. A downpour of rain scattered the crowd and the delegates said they would call on the Minister at his house.

The anti-Chinese feeling here does not seem to be any longer due, if it ever was, to sympathy with the southern Chinese rebels. Those who sympathized with the southern Chinese are disgusted with the southern incapacity of their leaders.

The resentment against the Chinese can actually be traced to various incidents in which the Japanese consider that they have been disrespectfully or outrageously treated by the Chinese. One of these was the case of a young Japanese Lieutenant who, while wearing his uniform, was struck up by the arms for six hours at Hankow by order of Chinese officials. This outrage is widely attributed here to the fact that the victim was a Japanese.

Unbiased observers do not believe this, but they contend that the treatment of the officers was a gross violation of the extraterritorial privileges of Hankow and point to the fact that China has refused to make satisfactory explanations and has therefore added insult to injury.

PERKIN, Sept. 7.—Japan has as yet done nothing in regard to the killing of Japanese subjects at Nankin beyond calling the attention of the Chinese Government in a serious manner to that affair. The Japanese Government, however, expects to receive instructions to make representations of a nature which it is thought will appease the popular feeling in Japan.

The Chinese officials contend that the Japanese who were killed left their consulate to protect their property notwithstanding the previous notice by the Chinese officials that all foreigners at Nankin would be compensated for any material losses they might suffer when the city was captured. Consequently, it is argued, China is not responsible for their fate. Moreover, the Chinese officials say, it is absurd to treat the incident as an outrage to the Japanese flag, considering the demoralized condition of the soldiers and the fact that Japanese hawkers sell the flags at two for a cent as toys.

GERMANY CREATES AN ISLAND.

Lies Off Helgoland and Shelters All Sorts of War Craft.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. LONDON, Sept. 7.—Germany has created an island in the North Sea. It lies off the lower part of Helgoland and is half as big as that island. The materials for creating the new island are being sent from Germany. Helgoland is very seldom visited as it is devoted entirely to military works, and every arrival is watched with suspicion.

A correspondent of the Daily Mail on revisiting Helgoland after two years records the discovery of the new island, which he says shelters small cruisers, destroyers, submarines and torpedo boats. He describes Helgoland as having been changed in an astonishing manner, with huge Krupp guns, which command all the approaches from the sea.

TO CUT 50 CENTS A WEEK DIET.

Miss Loewus Will Try to Beat Her Record for Frugality.

ITHACA, Pa., Sept. 7.—Miss Clara Loewus of Towanda, Pa., who lived for twenty weeks on $10 last spring while a student in the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, has sent word to the faculty that she will be back here this fall and intends to continue her meagre diet.

She says that she will try to cut the 50 cents a week diet by a few cents. Local tradesmen are praying that Miss Loewus does not start a campaign against the cost of living among other students this fall.

WOMAN JURY FOR X-RAY GOWN.

Court Grants Wearer's Demand and Case Comes Up To-day.

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 7.—When she was arrested to-day for wearing a diaphanous gown of the X-ray variety, Miss Claire Simmons demanded a trial by a jury of women.

Her request was granted, and the empanelling of the jury will be held to-morrow.

FIND STATUE OF RAMESES II.

Demolition of Well in Upper Egypt Brings It to Light.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. CAIRO, Sept. 7.—It is reported here that a magnificent statue of Rameses II. was recently discovered at Armet, Upper Egypt, by the demolition of a well.

ANGER IN TOKIO AT CHINESE OUTRAGES

Crowds in Control Demand Mobilization of the Japanese Army.

Chinese Officials Declare Persons Killed at Nankin Disobeyed Orders.

Special Cable Dispatches to The Sun. TOKIO, Sept. 7.—The murder of Mr. Abe of the Foreign Office is now generally believed to have been due to political intrigue. He had charge of the section of the Foreign Office which deals with Chinese affairs, the handling of which is causing daily increasing anger and wild speeches.

There was a meeting to-day at Hibiya Park, from which the police were absent, although they had issued an order that the demonstration should not be held. The killing of several Japanese at Nankin and the insult to the Japanese flag when the Chinese regular troops captured that city from the rebels and started to loot and pillage the place made up the principal theme of the speeches. A resolution was adopted demanding that the Japanese army be mobilized.

A delegation from the meeting accompanied by a crowd went to the Foreign Office to demand the mobilization of the army or the resignation of the Minister of Foreign Affairs. A downpour of rain scattered the crowd and the delegates said they would call on the Minister at his house.

The anti-Chinese feeling here does not seem to be any longer due, if it ever was, to sympathy with the southern Chinese rebels. Those who sympathized with the southern Chinese are disgusted with the southern incapacity of their leaders.

The resentment against the Chinese can actually be traced to various incidents in which the Japanese consider that they have been disrespectfully or outrageously treated by the Chinese. One of these was the case of a young Japanese Lieutenant who, while wearing his uniform, was struck up by the arms for six hours at Hankow by order of Chinese officials. This outrage is widely attributed here to the fact that the victim was a Japanese.

Unbiased observers do not believe this, but they contend that the treatment of the officers was a gross violation of the extraterritorial privileges of Hankow and point to the fact that China has refused to make satisfactory explanations and has therefore added insult to injury.

PERKIN, Sept. 7.—Japan has as yet done nothing in regard to the killing of Japanese subjects at Nankin beyond calling the attention of the Chinese Government in a serious manner to that affair. The Japanese Government, however, expects to receive instructions to make representations of a nature which it is thought will appease the popular feeling in Japan.

The Chinese officials contend that the Japanese who were killed left their consulate to protect their property notwithstanding the previous notice by the Chinese officials that all foreigners at Nankin would be compensated for any material losses they might suffer when the city was captured. Consequently, it is argued, China is not responsible for their fate. Moreover, the Chinese officials say, it is absurd to treat the incident as an outrage to the Japanese flag, considering the demoralized condition of the soldiers and the fact that Japanese hawkers sell the flags at two for a cent as toys.

GERMANY CREATES AN ISLAND. Lies Off Helgoland and Shelters All Sorts of War Craft.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. LONDON, Sept. 7.—Germany has created an island in the North Sea. It lies off the lower part of Helgoland and is half as big as that island. The materials for creating the new island are being sent from Germany. Helgoland is very seldom visited as it is devoted entirely to military works, and every arrival is watched with suspicion.

A correspondent of the Daily Mail on revisiting Helgoland after two years records the discovery of the new island, which he says shelters small cruisers, destroyers, submarines and torpedo boats. He describes Helgoland as having been changed in an astonishing manner, with huge Krupp guns, which command all the approaches from the sea.

TO CUT 50 CENTS A WEEK DIET. Miss Loewus Will Try to Beat Her Record for Frugality.

ITHACA, Pa., Sept. 7.—Miss Clara Loewus of Towanda, Pa., who lived for twenty weeks on $10 last spring while a student in the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, has sent word to the faculty that she will be back here this fall and intends to continue her meagre diet.

She says that she will try to cut the 50 cents a week diet by a few cents. Local tradesmen are praying that Miss Loewus does not start a campaign against the cost of living among other students this fall.

WOMAN JURY FOR X-RAY GOWN.

Court Grants Wearer's Demand and Case Comes Up To-day.

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 7.—When she was arrested to-day for wearing a diaphanous gown of the X-ray variety, Miss Claire Simmons demanded a trial by a jury of women.

Her request was granted, and the empanelling of the jury will be held to-morrow.

FIND STATUE OF RAMESES II.

Demolition of Well in Upper Egypt Brings It to Light.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. CAIRO, Sept. 7.—It is reported here that a magnificent statue of Rameses II. was recently discovered at Armet, Upper Egypt, by the demolition of a well.

HOLD UP CIGAR CLERK; GET $100

Men Get Away After Second United Store Robbery in a Week.

As Samuel Moscovitz, the clerk in the United Cigar Store at 352 Sixth avenue, was counting the money in the cash register about 9 o'clock last night a young man walked in and ordered a package of cigarettes. Moscovitz turned to get them just as another young man walked in the store and asked the first one what he was after.

"I am after some cigarettes," the first young man replied. "What are you after?"

"I am after some cash," came from the second, and when Moscovitz faced about he saw a revolver levelled at his head.

Then one of the men took $100 from the cash register and they both dashed out of the door and down Fifth street. Moscovitz set up a call for help at once, but when he arrived the holdup men had disappeared.

This is the second cigar store robbery in this section since last Tuesday.

AMERICAN LOAN TO TURKEY?

Report Issue of $10,000,000 Was Negotiated at Washington.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Standard prints a despatch from Constantinople to the effect that the Porte through the Turkish Ambassador at Washington has negotiated a loan of $10,000,000 with an American syndicate. No details are given.

MISS LAURA P. SWAN INJURED.

Thrown From Auto in Collision on Newport Street.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 7.—Miss Laura P. Swan, daughter of Mrs. Eliza Dyer, is at the Newport Hospital as a result of being thrown from an automobile on the street this afternoon. The runaway in which she and Andrew Robeson of Boston were riding was struck by a machine owned and driven by Charles Warburton of Fall River. Miss Swan was not seriously injured. She landed on her head and was unconscious when picked up. Mr. Robeson, who was uninjured, and Mr. Warburton thought that it was best to take her to the hospital.

NEGRO GIRL'S $112,000 A YEAR.

Ten-Year-Old Will Pay Biggest Income Tax in Oklahoma.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Sept. 7.—A negro girl 10 years old will pay the largest income tax in Oklahoma. Sarah Rector, who lives just west of Muskogee, has an income of more than $112,000 a year.

It is the old story of the lucky allottee and the oil well. Sarah is the descendant of a Creek freedman. She had nothing to do with the selection of her allotment and probably has never seen it and does not know where it is. But it is 160 acres of land and upon it has been drilled the biggest producing well in the mid-continent field. This is what is known as the Jones Gusher, near the town of Cushing. The well is producing more than $2,500 a day and Sarah gets one-eighth as her share.

This is just the beginning. Arrangements are already made to drill other wells. There is no doubt these will also be big producers.

MOVIES OF CHARLTON MURDER.

Shown at Como, but Police Forbid Any Repetition.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. COMO, Sept. 7.—A moving picture show which represented the murder of Mrs. Porter Charlton by her husband, who is now here awaiting trial, drew a big crowd to-day.

After the first display the police forbade any repetition of the exhibition.

SULZER TO CALL C. F. MUR